

Editorial policy

Nation and Defense provides a space for reflection that privileges different paradigms and perspectives relevant to theoretical and applied analysis of security and defense matters. The journal is dedicated to the critical examination and scientific debate on international security and defense.

Its priority is to promote a multidisciplinary approach to Security Studies, Strategic Studies, Political Science, History, Diplomatic Studies, International Relations, Sociology, International Law and Economics.

Nation and Defense is a scientific publication, which adopts the peer review system in the admission and approval of submitted articles.